Ask Abby Advice Column

Dear Abby,

I'm concerned about some recent developments in my family. Lately, my life has sort of become a large mess. My girlfriend's father is overly involved in her life and doesn't trust her to make her own decisions in relationships, and he thinks that I'm out to take advantage of her. The difficult part that complicates the situation is that her father actually works with my stepdad, with whom I have a pretty poor relationship. How can I keep my relationship with my girlfriend with her nosy dad in the way?

Sincerely,

Nosy Inlaws

Dear Abby,

My boyfriend is from a very prominent family and I'm a little bit worried that his wealth and privilege have gone to his head. My father tells me that some people think that they can take what they want from people. How can I tell whether or not my boyfriend loves me for me? What if he's in the relationship for the "wrong" reasons?

Sincerely, Proud Girl

Dear Abby,

I have a difficult situation and I need some advice. My husband died a few months ago and I'm wondering when it's okay to remarry. I have a man in line who I'm interested in, and I can't tell if it's okay to proceed.

Sincerely, Wants to Remarry

Dear Abby,

I'm going away to university and I want to make sure to live a responsible life without causing any stress to my highly-involved father or bringing shame to my family. I'm a pretty responsible young man, but do you have any advice for me?

Sincerely, Off to school
